PASSENGERS ESCAPE IN TRAGIC WRECK

Two men died in the cab of this locomotive in a tragic derailment of Winnipeg-bound CPR passenger train No. 82 early today. Still trapped in their overturned locomotive when this picture was taken were Engineer Harry Williams, 9748 82 avenue and Fireman R. A. Upper, 10314 82 avenue. A third member of the train crew, W. R. Maxwell, brakeman of Wilkie, Sask., died of injuries in Wetaskiwin hospital soon after 10 a.m.

THESE MAIL clerks had a miraculous escape from death or serious injury when their all-steel mail car buckled as Train 82 jumped the rails. Albert Skene (left) and his assistant, A. H. Gent, both of Saskatoon, crawled from the car unhurt, although it was only two back of the overturned locomotive.

Lost Fliers Arrive At Vancouver

Rescue of Couple
Difficult and Heroic
Operation

VANCOUVER, May 8.—(CP)—A lumbering silver RCAF Lancaster touched down at dusk here last night and taxied to a stop.

Out stepped Bill Grant and Sheila Cure—home from a dramatic escape from death after a plane crash in the mountains of north Washington state.

With the "Lancaster" landing, the last chapter was written in "one of the most difficult and heroic rescue and rescue operations ever undertaken in Canada."

SIX-DAY SEARCH

Canadian and United States fliers had braved countless dangers in six days of search and rescue.

But Miss Cure had another explanation for their safe return.

"I'm sure there was someone up stairs looking after us."

Fifty feet from the snow-capped peak of 8,000-foot Mount Horne, three miles south of the international border and 135 miles east of here, said their light Cessna aircraft.

BLINDING SNOWSTORM

Grant panicked the plane on the mountains Monday afternoon in a blinding snowstorm on a flight from Miss Cure's Carleton Place, Ontario to Vancouver. Its propeller was torn off and its left wing was damaged.

WALKED 15 MILES

The two survivors, who had trekked 15 miles from the wreck, were sighted Friday by a civilian aircraft.

During their six-day ordeal, Grant, 28-year-old Vancouver draughtsman, and Miss Cure, 28-year-old student nurse, survived on five chocolate bars and water.

PINCHER CREEK

Gets New Well

CALGARY, May 8.—(CP)—Canadian Gulf Oil Company brought in a second "wet gas" well in the Pincher Creek area of southern Alberta during the week-end.

A week-end test at Gulf Water Mary well gave wet gas from the upper part of the Madison Limestone. It still is not known if the Pincher Creek structure contains crude oil.

The discovery well, Pincher Creek No. 1, on the top of the structure, flowed up to 44 million feet of gas per day, containing up to 1,000 barrels of 51 gravity distillate per day. About 400 feet of varying porosity separated by tight layers of limestone, was drilled at the well.

WRECK SHOCK BRINGS BACK NORMAL SPEECH

Shock can do strange things.

For T. C. Murphy, the Saskatoon trainman who was badly cut in this morning's wreck at Wynne, it brought back normal speech.

He had stuttered for years but it was not until he was receiving treatment for his injuries in Wetaskiwin hospital, that he and fellow CPR employees suddenly realized the impediment had gone.

Five Others Hurt In CP Derailment

By Jack DeLong
Bulletin Staff Reporter

Two Edmonton engineers were instantly killed and a Wilkie, Sask. brakeman died of injuries, in the wreck of a Winnipeg-bound CPR passenger train near Wynne early today. Five others, all CPR employees, were injured.

Still pinned beneath the tangled wreckage of the overturned locomotive early this afternoon and believed by fellow railmen to be dead, are:

Engineer Harry Williams, 55, of 9748 82 avenue and Fireman Reginald A. Upper, 46, of 10314 82 avenue.

Died of injuries, Trainman W. R. Maxwell, Wilkie, Sask.

Treated for injuries in Wetaskiwin hospital:

Thomas C. Murphy, baggageman, Saskatoon, lacerated head and face.

Willie Kow, Kermel, Sask. minor scars.

Edgar Diemo, baggageman, 9621 79 street, scalded face.

Joe Krenpa, 48, Oshon, chest injuries.

A. Conquer, bridge and building foreman, Edmonton.

NO PASSENGERS HURT

None of the 40 passengers on Train 52, which left Edmonton at 10:40 p.m., was injured.

Wrecking crews expressed hope that body of Engineer Williams would be removed from the cab as an "early hour. Body of Fireman Upper would not likely be taken from the wreck until the overturned engine could be righted, because it was directly beneath the boiler, workers stated.

LEAVE RAILS ON TURN

Engine and five cars left the rails while rounding a sharp curve at Wynne hill about four and one-half miles east and south of Wetaskiwin, about 45 miles from Edmonton.

Accident is believed to have occurred at about 12:35 a.m. Cause of the wreck has not been determined.

Engine and five cars left the rails the express car going east to the right of the tracks and sliding down the side of a 15-foot embankment.

Passengers in the sleeping and observation cars at the rear were scarcely aware of the derailment, CPR officials said.

RUSHED TO HOSPITAL

Injured were rushed by ambulance and a special CPR coach to hospital in Wetaskiwin soon after the crash.

Bursting steam pipes threw up a deadly cloud around the wrecked locomotive. Bad drove would-be rescuers back.

The speeding locomotive, probably running close to 50 miles an hour on the down grade, turned completely over, with its still thrashing driving wheels in the air.

CAB TENDER JAMMED

The cab and tender were jammed tightly together and wrecking crew officials said it would be several hours before the steam crane could turn the engine right side up.

One set of trucks from the engine tender were carried down the track 200 feet east of the wreck. Second set of tender trucks were hurled up over an eight-foot cutting and came to rest in an open field about 100 feet from the right-of-way.

The engine was 40 paces from the right-of-way when it derailed, the train which was made up of nine cars.

SEVERELY SCALDED

Brakeman Maxwell, who was severely scalded in the wreck, was being rushed to hospital in a two-wheeled baggage and express car in the first coach. He is thought to have fallen into scalding water from the engine boiler that filled with a big depression to the left of the track.

2 Unidentified Women Are Heroines of Wreck

By JIM MCGURDY
Bulletin Staff Reporter

Two mystery "Flourine Nightingales" are the talk of the town in the small, peaceful city of Wetaskiwin today.

They are two women who jumped in and helped in the rescue and treatment of the five persons injured in the wreck of CPR train No. 52, bound for Winnipeg, on Monday night.

Still about 15 miles east of here.

DESCRIPTION GIVEN

No one at the wreck knows their names, and there is a good description of only one of them.

As described by a trainman, who declined to identify himself, she was smart looking, of medium height and build and dressed in a dark suit with a long, flowing skirt. She had "dark hair and possibly a few freckles. She was wearing a light colored hat with a black band.

and blue flowers. She wore a black coat.

Of the other one, all known is that she was dressed in a red coat and said to have been bound for Saskatoon.

FIRST IS NURSE

The first mentioned of the two women has been described as a nurse. Hiding in a derelict coach, she was off the train within seconds of the accident and rushed ahead to where locomotive, tender and freight and two express and baggage cars lay in a tumbled mess.

W. R. Maxwell, most seriously injured trainman, who died in Wetaskiwin hospital this morning, was lying on his back when he was hit by the engine. He had been the right-of-way, badly burned and with several other injuries. The unknown woman aided in getting him away from the wreck and then helped to give further aid to trainmen.

Next she was instrumental in the removal of T. C. Murphy of Saskatoon from his express car.

"The other unknown heroine has an especially striking "flair" in Ed. Diemo of 9621 79 street. After he stumbled out of his baggage car and found the train and the train and fire from steam, which escaped in the car immediately after the accident, the woman quickly administered first aid from a kit brought forward by one of the sleeping car porters.

Life, Property Loss Is Heavy

No Sound Heard From Train's Cab

Mail Clerks Believe Death Took Train Crew Instantly

"We never heard a human sound from the cab after the crash."

In that tragically significant sense, mail clerk Albert Skene of Saskatoon was saying Engineer Harry Williams and Fireman R. A. Upper died swiftly and mercifully in the wreck and CPR Train 52 near Gwynne early today.

Skene and his assistant, A. H. Gent, also of Saskatoon, were on the train when it left the track some 12 miles and 1 a.m. about five miles east of Gwynne, Sask. win.

Interviewed by a Bulletin reporter at the scene of the wreck, Skene said:

"There was a lurch followed by a bumping. I knew we had left the rails. I jumped for the safety bars that run along the sides of the mail coach. They are for just that purpose and after years of railroad work I quite a few weeks ago told this automatically."

"A steamship burst and hot steam poured into the car. Then the train stopped."

I said to myself: "We have to get out of here quick." I jumped out the mail door. The engine was in front and turned upside down. We found Trainman Maxwell lying face down from the engine boiler. He was moaning with pain. We helped carry him away. Maxwell died later of his injuries.

"We ran to the engine but found it was completely smashed. There were great clouds of steam from broken boiler pipes. I saw the engine crew dead instantly," Skene said.

"I had high praise for two young women passengers dressed in red who showed great presence of mind and courage in the first aid and other assistance to the crew."

Names of the two girls were immediately ascertained.

It was the worst blow I was ever in and I've been in quite a few of it and railroadings," concluded Skene.

LOCOMOTIVE IS LOST

The passenger locomotive, buried down in the roadbed dirt, is a total loss. A steel apex express car next the engine is also a total wreck. The allied express and combination mail and baggage cars are badly damaged.

Two express engines suffered some damage.

At least, hundreds of feet of track was torn up.

CPR Superintendent J. R. Strother revealed No. 52 was running about 30 minutes late when it left the rails.

Mr. Strother did not think wreck would be restored before Tuesday noon at the earliest.

COMPLETE PLOT

He said there will be a complete investigation with a complete jury ascertaining cause of death in the cases of the three men killed.

Rail officials believed from the position of the overturned locomotive that it was "climbed" the side of the cutting when it jumped the track and then to have fallen over on its back.

Wrecking crew workers reported one side of the cab filled with earth.

'DEAD' 10 MINUTES, YOUNG BOY REVIVED

PASADENA, Calif., May 9.—(UP)—Little Lawrence Page, 4, who died for 10 minutes, held his own today in his fight for life.

The boy stopped breathing after a traffic accident but a heart stimulant and artificial respiration revived him, Huntington hospital doctors said.

They explained he apparently "died" because of extreme shock and fat escaping from the injured boy's marrow and clogging arteries.

The boy came into the path of a car late Saturday night.

Greater Compensation Asked by Executors

TORONTO, May 9.—(CP)—A court ruling handed down Saturday cleared up some of the problems concerning payment of trustees of the estate of John Ross Robertson, founder of the Toronto Telegram.

The ruling restricted original trustees and executors to the small amounts specified in the will. But it left successor trustees free to seek larger amounts of compensation.

A five-person board of trustees managed the newspaper from the time of Mr. Robertson's death in 1938 until it was sold to George McCullagh last December.

TRUSTEES OF ESTATE

The remaining original trustees are Douglas S. Robertson and Alfred T. Chadwick. Successor trustees, according to the terms of the original trust, are C. O. Knowles, H. J. Snider and C. P. McTaggart.

The two remaining original trustees and the three successor trustees asked Mr. Justice G. A. Gale to decide whether they and others who had been executors and trustees of the estate were entitled to compensation for what they termed "the care, pains, time and sweat."

From Monday through Saturday 12,000 borough electors will be at stake in voting across England and Wales.

Electors will choose their representatives for 420 borough councils, 272 urban district councils, 475 rural district councils and approximately 7,000 parish councils.

From a party standpoint, the greatest significance is attached to Thursday's borough elections.

The 9,782 candidates will contest 4,718 council seats in 28 in the London boroughs and the rest of the side city.

Opponents of Drew Lumped as Marxists

OTTAWA, May 9.—(CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, told his supporters Saturday that the Liberals are "socialists in low gear" and said the choice in the coming federal election will be between responsible government and bureaucratic government.

Mr. Drew, who left yesterday to begin a cross-country campaign in the Maritime, said that in the June 27 election the choice will be between the Progressive Conservative and parties which support the basic principles of Karl Marx.

SELF-GOVERNMENT

The Progressive Conservative party believed that the people should govern themselves through their elected representatives. The party believed in the freedom of the individual.

The Liberal, the CCF and the Labor-Progressive parties believed that agriculture, industry and trade should be under the control of the government.

CLAIMS FOLLOWING

Mr. Drew was not suggesting, he said, that there was any connection between the Communists and the Liberals and the CCF but they were following the basic doctrine of the Socialist Marx, who had advocated that agriculture, industry and trade be placed under government control.

Mr. Drew was unanimously nominated by the convention to carry the party's banner again in the 1952 Constituency through which he entered the Commons after his election to the National Leadership of the party in October.

The year was 1866...

the leaders in Canada's confederation movement met in London and argued a knotty problem: what to name the new nation. "Colony" fell far short of suiting the temper of Canadian thinking. It is recorded that Sir Leonard Tilley of New Brunswick finally pointed out the aptness of the biblical quotation:

"He shall have dominion also from sea to sea."

There is a lesson for every Canadian in this story from the past. By the very origin of the name, "Dominion" can never mean "domination." "Dominion" would never be excepted by Canadians. But the Dominion of Canada is the Dominion of a free people... men and women who are privileged to express their will through the ballot box.

When YOU cast your secret ballot for every election—municipal, provincial, federal—you exercise a duty and privilege planned, worked, and fought for by your forefathers. Your vote protects the future of your children. To fail in this is to let them be a good citizen.

Both Parties Show Much Confidence

MacKinnon and Smith See Grits and Tories in Sweep

Sweeping victories for their own party in the forthcoming federal elections were predicted today by two prominent members of the House of Commons for Alberta.

Hon. James MacKinnon, federal minister without portfolio, and MP for Edmonton West, forecast an overall majority for the Liberals. A. L. Smith, K.C., MP for Calgary West, stated emphatically the Progressive Conservatives would get a minimum of 127 seats.

Here to speak at the PC convention for West Edmonton in Masonic Temple at 10 o'clock tonight, Mr. Smith said "he was certain" his party would take at least 30 seats in Quebec.

His trans-continental predictions were as follows: Newfoundland, three; P.E.I. three; N.S. six; N.B. five; Quebec, 30; Ontario, 60; Manitoba, six; Saskatchewan, three; Alberta, six; and B.C. five.

MacKinnon's prognostication presented an interesting contrast. The two MPs agreed on only two points: That B.C. was a "mess" as far as the two traditional main parties were concerned; and that the PCP would gain Toronto industrial seats.

Mr. MacKinnon's opinion was Newfoundland, in only two seats and the Conservatives have a chance, giving Liberals five; Manitoba, the Liberals would hold their own; Quebec, a minimum of 60 Liberals, none on election victory.

In Ontario, Liberals would win a number of rural western seats. Mr. Smith's contrary opinion was "solidly Conservative". Mr. MacKinnon's predictions for western Canada were that Liberals would do better in Manitoba; certainly would in Saskatchewan; would improve their position in Alberta, and hold their own in B.C.

Special Flower Lift Rescues Mothers' Day

Hundreds of Edmonton mothers can thank the "Flower Lift" for bouquets of blooms received Mother's Day.

Had it not been for the TCA air express service, thousands of bouquets from the west coast would not have arrived here in time. Flowers were late material this year, a TCA official stated, and a large part of the crop could not have been taken in time for regular shipment.

Close to 100,000 blooms, mainly tulips, were rushed from the fields of the Fraser Valley and Vancouver Island to the airports at Vancouver and Victoria last Friday and Saturday to bolster dwindling supplies here.

SOLD OUT EARLY Even with last minute arrival of supplies, almost every floral in town was sold out of cut flowers early on Saturday in a boom which broke all previous Mother's Day records. Some florists stopped taking orders as early as Thursday.

The flower famine was made more severe by shortage of carnations here. There were also a few tulips.

Florists estimate 75 per cent of flowers sold in Edmonton were shipped in from the west coast and the east. They arrived by plane, refrigerator car, and rail express.

GEORGE DREW HERE AROUND END OF MAY

Hon. George Drew, leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, will open his western tour in Edmonton sometime around the end of this month. This was announced today by A. L. Smith, Jr., of Calgary, newly-appointed public relations officer for the party in Alberta.

Mr. Smith stated he was unable to give a definite date, nor specify all places the PC leader would be visiting in Alberta.

From here, he will go to southern Alberta and then the Pacific Coast, Mr. Smith said. He would remain in Edmonton one day.

Truck-Bound Fliers Here With 'Copter

Two American pilots, temporarily grounded and turned truckdrivers, paused in Edmonton last night just a little over half way on a 6,000-mile trip from Camden, N.J., to Anchorage, Alaska.

Both Woodrow Reese, 36, and Maxwell Anderson, 38, of Camden, voluntarily became part-time truckers.

Reason for their choice is that their cargo is a Sikorski helicopter which both are slated to fly out of Anchorage for the Alaska Airlines.

"Looking a little incongruous in his pilot's uniform and silver wings as he sat in the plant trailer-truck, Reese said they wanted to give "baby" their personal care every mile of the way.

And they have. There isn't a scratch or a dent anywhere on "baby" sleek yellow body, even though she's travelled 3,000 miles over mountains and valleys, cement roads and gravel roads, since leaving Camden last Tuesday.

NO WORRIES

The truck-bound fliers are not apprehensive about the remainder of the trip over the Alaska highway.

"We've both had plenty of trucking experience," Reese said, "and your motor association says the road is in good shape."

When they arrive—May 17, we hope—the three-passenger craft will have its tail-boom, rotors, blades and body re-assembled and will join a small fleet of five Bell helicopters already engaged in a geologic survey for the U.S. government.

Fleet for eight years, both Reese and Anderson plan to take their families to Alaska. They expect to stay there for "three to five years" and then, they said, there's a possibility the company will send them to its bases in Persia or South America.

FROM FLYING TO TRUCKING doesn't seem like progress but it is to pilots Woodrow Reese and Maxwell Anderson who are shepherding helicopter they expect to fly out of Anchorage, Alaska. Enroute since last Tuesday from Camden, N.J., they say here today they wouldn't trust aircraft to anyone else.

New Dog Bylaw Needed

The only thing wrong with the present city bylaw restricting the activities of dogs is that when it works it works with far too much vehemence.

When it is really put into operation it rights a good many wrongs, but it also inflicts a good many injustices.

Thus, of the scores of people who have been hauled into court charged with allowing their dogs to run at large, probably not more than 10 per cent are really guilty of harboring animals that are actual nuisances.

It follows, then, that in order to put 10 useless and disorderly dogs out of action, 90 well-behaved animals are made to face the danger of losing their lives by a conviction registered against their owners.

The bylaw is far too sweeping.

Like an earthquake, it awallows up the just with the unjust.

What Edmonton requires, in the opinion of many, is a dog bylaw that must convict a dog of actual nuisance or harmful trespass before the animal is placed in jeopardy.

For instance, if a dog is a confirmed nuisance of the night's peace, if it is a habitual digger in strange gardens, if it is dangerous to children or adults, if it is neglected to the point where it must overturn garbage cans in search of sustenance—then everyone is surely agreed that such a dog must either be kept shut up or destroyed.

But the point is that the bylaw should be framed so that it would be necessary to prove some actual nuisance or danger to the animal before it is placed in jeopardy.

It is unfair that a dog should be adjudged a nuisance merely because it is at large.

That is where the present bylaw errs. And that is where, in all fairness, it should be amended.

Not the City's Responsibility

The Chamber of Commerce confuses its own functions with the functions of the City of Edmonton when it passes a resolution urging the city to "continue to recognize its responsibility for using the available slack roads in the generation of power."

The financially healthy condition of Edmonton district coal mines is no part of the responsibility of the Chamber of Commerce.

It is the responsibility of the provincial government.

But the only responsibility of the City of Edmonton is to give Edmonton taxpayers and Edmonton ratepayers good service at the lowest possible cost.

And if the conversion of the entire power plant to the use of gas will save Edmonton money, investigation has shown it will, then that complete conversion should be undertaken without regard to the welfare of the mines affected.

There is no doubt that the stability of the coal mining industry is a matter of deep concern, and properly so, to a great many people in Edmonton.

As a matter of fact, most Edmonton people would feel some adverse effect should that industry languish.

But it is not the business of the city, as a corporation to take that into consideration.

Edmonton's business is to operate the utilities as cheaply and efficiently as possible.

There must be other ways to utilize slack coal than in the furnaces of the Edmonton power plant. Extensive research has pointed out scores of methods by which low grade coal can be made to yield profitable by-products.

But the provincial government should investigate these methods as completely and quickly as possible.

Public Money Down the Drain

By this time millions of taxpayers will have received greeting cards from the department of transport, C.B.C.'s collection agents, informing them that their radio licenses are now due and that they can renew them from authorized agents, at post offices and elsewhere.

By the time all the authorized agents, post office clerks and others have finished collecting the individual $2.50's, they will have cost the country approximately $600,000, or about 12 per cent of the total collections. By contrast, the money that is extracted for little more than one per cent of the total.

Even in an era when the public dollars are flattered around like autumn leaves, this sort of nonsense makes a miser out of the prodigal son. Why, in all conscience, should we permit a simple administrative task into a full-scale operation by transport department and post office shock troops?

There are two alternative plans which would eliminate 80 per cent of the expense, each of which is probably too simple to be considered.

There is no doubt that the stability of the coal mining industry is a matter of deep concern, and properly so, to a great many people in Edmonton.

As a matter of fact, most Edmonton people would feel some adverse effect should that industry languish.

But it is not the business of the city, as a corporation to take that into consideration.

Edmonton's business is to operate the utilities as cheaply and efficiently as possible.

There must be other ways to utilize slack coal than in the furnaces of the Edmonton power plant. Extensive research has pointed out scores of methods by which low grade coal can be made to yield profitable by-products.

But the provincial government should investigate these methods as completely and quickly as possible.

The first of these would merely require recipients of the reminder cards to make out the transport department and to the transport department in return envelopes provided for the purpose.

The second would do away with the $2.50 license fee altogether and replace it by an equivalent annual parliamentary grant to the C.B.C.

The second suggestion has, in fact, been made on the floor of the house, and been rejected on the grounds that it would destroy what is quaintly described as "independence."

If this precious independence really hinges on the difference between a grant of money from parliament and a handout from the transport department, it is indeed a delicate thing and requires not so much more protection as several shots in the arm and a couple of tanks of oxygen.

In any case, so far as the C.B.C.'s independence is concerned, it is most probable that a 90 per cent reduction in its fee is indeed a delicate thing and requires not so much more protection as several shots in the arm and a couple of tanks of oxygen.

What does matter is that $600,000 that is being poured down the drain every year.

BIGGEST BROADWAY 'ANGEL' CLOSES SHOW

NEW YORK, May 9.—(CP)—Broadway's biggest angel threw in the towel this week-end. Anthony R. Farrell, millionaire banker of the "All for Love" production, which has been running since January at a steady loss, Saturday night. "I doubt very much whether I'll do another show," said Farrell, co-producer with Sammy Lambert of the show which costarred Grace and Paul Hartman and Bert Wheeler. "All for Love" cost $300,000 to produce. Its losses since it opened at the Mark Hellinger theatre Jan. 22 are estimated at more than $200,000, making the total bill out of Farrell's pocket at least $400,000. The production was panned by New York critics and despite extensive revision of the script since the opening it failed to pay its way in any week. Farrell purchased the Mark Hellinger theatre at an estimated cost of $1,300,000 to provide a show-case for "All for Love." Owner of a cable company and heir to a traction and utilities fortune, Farrell made his debut as a Broadway "angel" last season with a musical called "Hill 70." That venture cost him $300,000.

JALLOPY AIRPLANE REACHES 37 M P H

MAIDENHEAD, Berkshire, England, May 9.—(AP)—An airplane which loafed along at 37 miles an hour cut capers at a strange aviation meet yesterday. It was a Royal Aeronautical Society air show for the oldest planes in the land, and a dozen jalopies of the aviation world were on view. The plane which hit 37 miles an hour was an affair of canvas and rope, a 1909 monoplane. Its 25-horsepower motor made a great dip, but it lifted the 650-pound machine a few feet off the ground.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, Monday, May 9, 1949

NEW KIND OF POLIO REPORTED BY DOCTOR

BUFFALO, N.Y., May 9.—(AP)—A newly-found virus causes either a second kind of polio, or a disease much like polio, Dr. Gilbert Dailford of Albany reported today. This virus was obtained from 17 humans who had a disease that appeared to be poliomyelitis, he told the New York State Medical Society. But it's quite different from the kinds of virus which are known to cause typical polio in humans, said Dr. Dailford. It causes paralysis in humans about as often as the known kinds of virus do. But the paralysis seems to be less severe, and usually doesn't last as long. Viruses are disease-causing agents, much smaller than bacteria, that can live and reproduce only in the kind of living cells that they attack. One big difference in the new virus is how it affects animals. It causes paralysis only in baby mice two to eight days old. It doesn't paralyze mice older than that. Nor does it cause paralysis in monkeys, as the regular kinds of polio virus do. Only one of the regular polio viruses cause paralysis in mice. In the Fiji Islands, the human head is considered sacred, and it is an insult to reach above the head of another person.

Storage Locker Plant Opens at Beaverlodge

BEAVERLODGE, May 9.—A new freezer plant was installed here recently by the Naselkin Bros., proprietors of the local meat market, and is part of the new cement block building which was constructed here last fall.

The plant consists of three rooms, the chilling room, which has a temperature of 34 deg. F., the quick freeze room, with a below zero temperature of 20 and the locker room which is kept at an approximate temperature of zero. All temperatures are under automatic control. The locker room is large enough to accommodate 200 lockers, which are, of both the door and drawer types.

A demonstration on preparation and serving of quick frozen foods was given by Miss Cecilia Connolly, district home economist, a few days before the plant began operation. A great deal of interest was aroused among homemakers of the town and district, and, no doubt, many will take advantage of this modern service in their own community.

Year's Activities Viewed by Weir

New Paving Trials May Be Thin Edge of Vital Wedge

Mr. Harold L. Weir, associate editor of the Edmonton Bulletin, Sunday night addressed a radio audience over Station CFBM on the past year's accomplishments and lack of accomplishment of Edmonton's civic administration.

Here, in full, is the text of Mr. Weir's address for the benefit of those who were unable to hear the broadcast:

I'm making this broadcast tonight to mark a sort of journalistic anniversary.

Almost exactly one year ago, the Edmonton Bulletin embarked upon a campaign to shake the civic administration out of what we believed and what thousands of citizens believed to be a dangerous and unprofitable lethargy.

Along with these thousands of citizens, we could see Edmonton expanding and developing, not only in a physical and material way but in that inward way which manifests itself in a new spirit of enterprise, courage and resource.

A GREAT CITY

We were aware that this was becoming a great city, in spite of its point of size and swelling population, but in point of aspiration and determination.

Edmonton was growing. And so also were growing the minds and hearts of Edmonton people in vision and in justifiable ambition—all but the minds and hearts in control of the civic administration!

We were forced to make that unhappy exception because it was tragically apparent that the technique for governing Edmonton was the type of thinking in control of Edmonton's civic services largely behind the new position of the city, enriched as it was, and is, by the citizen's wealth in natural resources it is possible to imagine.

As a result of this fatal imbalance between governmental thinking and popular thinking, between administrative and popular performance and opportunity, Edmonton was fairly bursting out of her seams.

She was and still is a lusty young adult in child's clothing.

MANY FACTORS

The sewage system and the water distribution system were hopelessly inadequate.

Hotel space was and is ridiculous. Inadequate.

There was and still is a power bill need for a civic auditorium.

The streets and sidewalks in at least every part of the city were in downright disgrace.

Dust blew and still blows like a diabolical yellow cloud over Edmonton from unimproved streets and lanes, costing housewives tens of thousands of dollars in damage to furniture and fittings and taking an unknown toll of health.

There were so many things to be done it was necessary to fix chiefly upon one crying need so dreadfully urgent as to be a symbol of all the rest.

So almost exactly one year ago, the Edmonton Bulletin settled upon street paving as the immediate and most compelling target and began to campaign for better, cheaper and more efficient methods.

We questioned, among other things, the apparent obsession of civic officials that concrete was necessary in all types of city paving.

We questioned that the more vehemently and searchingly because it was that that using the old methods and at the old rates, all Edmonton's streets would never be paved this side of judgement day.

A NEW EXPERIMENT

And the reason I described this broadcast as marking something in the way of journalistic anniversary is that yesterday the city announced that types of paving advocated by Dean H. Hardy of the University, an engineering expert whom we had frequently quoted, would be tried out in certain selected residential streets.

Now if this asphalt technique, which Dean Hardy says will save money and time, proves successful, the completion of Edmonton's might at this moment we need 1,000 extra hotel rooms to make us equal with Calgary, which itself has not enough accommodation, stable as its growth and importance have become.

In a year that need will have entangled in a larger rooming house.

What are we doing to encourage new hotel building here?

I have mentioned a civic auditorium.

CIVIC AUDITORIUM

In fact an auditorium bylaw was devised because, in the first place, it was vague and because, in the second place, it did not offer a sufficiently diversified number of uses.

We must have an auditorium that will provide, not only theatre space for musical and theatrical events of note, but space for conventions and meetings of various attractions. There must be something for everybody or no bylaw will ever pass.

We must have a sufficient number of public swimming pools so that programs of swimming and water safety may be taught to every Edmonton child and adult.

We have three outdoor pools at present. We require right now at least 10 in a year or so it will be 15.

We require a civic transportation system capable of carrying a constantly enlarging population to and from its work at a rate that the most poorly remunerated can afford.

Of intimate concern to every citizen of Edmonton is the selection of the Yellowhead Route for the projected Trans-Canada Highway.

MANY ADVANTAGES

This route is the cheapest to build. It is the cheapest to maintain. It will serve more people than any other route. It has definite military advantages. And it connects with the Alaska Highway which is the best-known Canadian tourist attraction among the people of the United States.

Mayor Harry D. Ainlay has already performed a magnificent service in the promotion of this route. All the weight of Edmonton publicity should be behind him in these efforts.

High in the list of imperative needs is a more serious conception of town planning in Edmonton, a matter that hitherto has been treated by the administration with something very like contempt.

A comprehensive long-term town planning scheme is the essential basis of all sound development.

In the matter of street paving alone, how, for instance, can streets be divided for first grade or second grade paving unless the trend of growth, determining the course of arterial highways and secondary streets, is controlled by planning?

The Bulletin has long advocated a complete town planning survey by outside experts who could give this city millions of dollars in avoiding development mistakes.

This city has the most significant

FORD IS ON TRIAL

JEAN DRAPEAU, counsel for 60 miners who were taken to Montreal after bitter violence that flared as 4,000 of 5,000 striking Asbestos workers harried all approaches to the town, wrote Premier Maurice Duplessis saying "one of the most sacred traditions of justice" had been breached.

CAN'T SEE CLIENTS

He said efforts to see his clients, who walked off their jobs Feb. 21 for higher pay and tangled with heavily-armed police at the town's approaches last week, had met with red tape.

He complained to the Canadian Quebec and Montreal Bar associations that the strikers, arrested on charges ranging from obstructing police to criminal assault, had not been given their legal right of arraignment in court 24 hours after their arrest.

POLICE STILL PATROL

Meanwhile, police patrolled this centre of the world's asbestos industry in groups after riot and riot provisions, which could bring life imprisonment to anyone meeting in groups of more than 12 immediately after it was read, were withdrawn.

Rodolphe Hamel, president of the striking Asbestos Workers Federation, estimated some 300 strikers were held for trial in Asbestos.

Atmosphere Is Tense As 60 Strikers Jailed

ASBESTOS, Que., May 9.—(HUP)—An air of brooding tension hung over this strike-torn mining town today after provisions of the riot act were lifted and a lawyer said 60 strikers had been held incommunicado since their arrest Friday.

Greeks Face Attack Threat

ATHENS, Greece, May 9.—(UP)—"Strong concentrations" of guerrillas are massing on the Albanian border in preparation for a possible summer drive into Greece, the Greek General Staff announced.

Unofficial sources estimated that more than 10,000 rebels were massed along the border, near the "natural entry points" used by the Italians for their World War II attack on Greece.

The General Staff communiqué said that Greek reconnaissance planes had sighted guerrillas piling up large amounts of ammunition and other supplies near the Albanian border towns of Mourgana and Pogoniani.

Ottawa Wins Allan Cup

Flipping Regina 5-3

Senators Follow Flyers As Shamateur Champs

OTTAWA, May 9.—(CP)—Ottawa Senators won the Allan Cup Saturday with a 5-3 win over Regina Capitals in the fifth game of the 1949 series.

W. E. (Buddy) George, vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey association, gave the big silver cup to Captain Bobby Coo of the Senators immediately after the game. Coo skated proudly off the ice with it, surrounded by hundreds of yelling Ottawa fans.

Senators checked Regina for safety to a standard and outscored the western champions 2-1 in each of the first two periods. Each club scored a single goal in the final frame.

SPLIT FIVE WAYS
Lester Coo, Ray Trainor, Eddie Emberg, Emil Dagenais and Nila Tremblay got the goals for the victorious team. For Regina it was Toby Brown, Lou Hulse and Mel Hill who did the scoring. Coo to 8,000 saw the wind-up.

Ottawa won the first three games of the best-of-seven series in Ottawa by scores of 3-1, 6-4, 7-0, then dropped the fourth game in Toronto 6-3. It was by the same margin, in games won and when they suffered losses, that the Allan Cup final last year to Edmonton Flyers.

The 1949 Ottawa was its first Allan Cup since 1943 when an RCAF team won the trophy, representing the Canadian senior championship.

Senators jumped into the lead at 1-0 in the first period, when they checked the puck into the Regina net.

Twice Regina tied the score, but they never passed the Senators who were solidly in front. The first stop, Legs Fraser, in the Ottawa net, closed it.

Brown led the score less than five minutes after Coo's goal when he poked past Frasier's stick. Trainor put Ottawa ahead again, beating Bentley with a screened shot.

Hauck checked for Regina with two minutes of the second period. He was the payoff man on a rush by the Kyle brothers. Bentley, who was in the net, Dagenais caught on a power play when he poked past Frasier's stick. Darnell laid down a perfect pass for Tremblay early in the final period and he clicked for Ottawa's final goal. Hill scored with five minutes to go, a 5-3 final score.

LEGGS FRASER

The 3-5 favorite, Daner Gonz was fourth, his 128 pounds got too much for him.

Arctic Warfare Pattern Decided

Churchill Tests Show Big Scale Fighting Impossible

By Charles Lynch

CHURCHILL, Man., May 9.—(Reuters)—Large-scale warfare in the Canadian Arctic is impossible. That conviction has been fully established by the work of Canadian, British and American soldiers and scientists at a joint experimental station set up here in 1946.

Any military action in the north would have to be on a small scale to be effective—small battle groups of men, armored vehicles, guns and aircraft.

AIRBORNE FORCE VITAL
Airborne troops would be an integral part of any northern force. To this end Canada is training an airborne brigade to act as an anti-invasion striking force in the north.

The military planners appear to have abandoned thought of a full-scale invasion of North America across the polar region. On the basis of experience at Churchill and elsewhere, they do not think it could be done.

But they know a potential enemy could establish a token foothold on any of the thousands of islands in the Canadian Arctic, or anywhere in the sparsely-populated area of northern Canada.

DIVISION IMPORTANT
Thus, a division would be created that might keep large bodies of Canadian and United States forces preoccupied, cutting down on the forces available for more active theatres.

The object, therefore, is to evolve techniques that would enable such enemy forces to be snuffed out quickly and decisively, using minimum numbers of troops.

That is why most of the research at Fort Churchill is designed to make possible the quick movement of troops and armor across the north country, either by air or on the ground.

LESSONS FROM MANY
Training programs at Churchill incorporate lessons learned from the Eskimo, the Indian, Canadian lumberjacks and bush pilots. The Scandinavian countries, the Russian Finns and the Alpine campaigns of the First World War.

The winter program is the most intensive schedule of cold weather tests yet undertaken at this "mystery" base on the shore of Hudson Bay. Top-secret reports now are being written for Ottawa, Washington and London, and preparations are being made for heavier program next winter.

The reports will show a radical new housing unit and clothing for "wind chill" and how standard military equipment reacts when it is "wind soaked". They will give performance details on the growing list of weapons devised especially for Arctic conditions. And they will lay the groundwork for new programs of military strategy to govern Arctic operations.

John Masfield Has Fair Night
OXFORD, England, May 9.—(Reuters)—John Masfield, the poet laureate who is in a nursing home suffering from complications after an attack of influenza, was said to have had a fair night and to be "a little more comfortable".

Inside Hollywood

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD, (AP)—George Raft, who might not seem the continental type, expects to join the ever-growing Hollywood colony in Europe for the rest of this year.

The perennial film tough guy has been in France for months finishing "The Ball Bond Story". He is seeking a house on the Riviera and will stay there for the rest of the year. He says he's tired.

"I've done four straight pictures in which I appear in every scene," he claims. "No wonder they say I'm a busy actor; I can't find anybody, being on the screen so much."

Evelyn Keyes will go a slow boat to Italy as soon as she finishes "Mr. Mike," and she doesn't care what the studio thinks about it. Her relations with Columbia have often been stormy and reached a climax with her recent suspension. Evelyn will take the most trip with Paulette Goddard to her husband John Huston. He'll be making "Que Pasa" in Italy.

Gloria Swanson won't stick around Hollywood to see if her long film career flowers again after "Scared Stiff." She returns to New York to negotiate a deal to reunite her television show in the fall. She hopes to make it a coast-to-coast.

Barbara Bel Geddes was among the economy casualties at RKO. She is now free-lancing, . . .

Hardworking Bill Holden gets a month's vacation after three pictures. He'll be back in June.

"Sword in the Desert" has only a few more hours of shooting to go, but has to wait a few weeks until Dana Andrews recovers from his flu.

Gary Cooper plans to build a ski lodge at his Aspen, Colo. ranch.

They're calling the Bob Hope remark of "Ruggles of Red Gap" to start. "Where Men Are Men." But what about the son-of-a-bitch released Guy Madison film, "When a Man's a Man."

Small Audience Hears Season's Final Concert

The audience was small but appreciative and the Edmonton Philharmonic Orchestra seemed to be having a good time as it gave its last concert for the season at the Strand Theatre last night.

It was Abe Frajlich's farewell appearance as permanent conductor of the orchestra and he made the most of it as he led his musicians in a concert which was enjoyable for the most part.

Program selections ran from Beethoven to Offenbach with the latter receiving a little better of the deal.

Guest soloist Nancy Telle was a charming addition to the program. The well-known soprano sang "Ah, Non Crederi" from the opera "Gianni Schicchi" and an aria from Bellini's "La Sonnambula," and a Polish folk song, "Mother Love." Miss Telle varied a spirited climax for the songs with ease and clarity. She has just a slight business in her voice which detracts from its purity.

The program opened with Beethoven's Overture to Coriolan, followed by the feature of the night, Schubert's Fifth Symphony which was not as familiar as his fourth but was a merited.

The orchestra did a creditable job on this work with only a few minor errors. The strings were in the background. The musicians were more in the foreground towards the end and piece.

The concert was a success and the audience was well served.

Anti-Dust Action Asked

Vigorous complaint against dust and dirt conditions on 111 avenue between 82 street and the CNR tracks is voiced in a petition from residents in the district to city council.

The petition, seeking remedial action, is signed by 15 taxpayers in the district and will be considered by city council tonight.

They complain their homes are being damaged by vibration caused by heavy trucks running over rough and poorly constructed roads.

Demand is made that council authorize opening of direct traffic connection on 112 avenue across the CNR tracks, and that all heavy traffic be routed over this connection.

As an alternative, it is suggested that 111 avenue be properly graded, levelled and silted, and the dust nuisance eliminated.

CIPPERHAM, Wilshire, England, May 8.—(Reuters) Countess Clare, 70-year-old widow of the third Earl of Cowley, died in a fire at her home, Seagrave House, here yesterday. Six other persons in the mansion were rescued from the roof.

Accident Victim Still Critical

Forty-five-year-old Benny Nelson, 10309 35 avenue, is still unconscious in the University hospital today as a result of injuries sustained in an auto-truck collision last Wednesday.

Nelson was driving with Alphonse Gagne, 1281 154 street on the Calgary Trail when the car smashed into a stationary truck belonging to George Hoo, Edmonton.

Nelson sustained extensive brain damage, skull fracture and face lacerations. Hospital authorities report his condition as critical.

Gagne, who suffered severe lacerations on face and arms chest injuries is still in hospital, but his condition is "not serious."

Bus Service Is Petitioned

Extension of bus service to Silver Heights district is requested by 22 residents in the district in a petition being submitted to city council tonight.

PLIGHT OF FELINES BASIS FOR PETITION

Proposal to "bell" or license cats will be presented to city council tonight.

Petition will be submitted from residents in 102 block, 149 and 158 streets, Jasper Place, seeking enactment of cat license measure.

They complain of "miserable, half-starved looking animals that prey on bird life in the district," and assert that if some protective measure is not taken no wild birds will be left in the district.

The petition is signed by A. G. Shute, former chief constable, and eight other residents in the district.

Apprenticeship Board Proposes New System

Better deal for Alberta apprentices in building and motor mechanics trades is indicated in a report of the Apprenticeship Board.

The board met here last week to discuss proposed amendments to provincial apprenticeship regulations.

Recommendations made by the board will be considered by the Provincial Apprenticeship Board May 26, and will be forwarded to the department of Industries and Labor.

ORDER IN COUNCIL

Order in council will be required to enact the proposed amendments.

Under recommendations from the advisory board, all employers in designated building trades and motor mechanic trade would be required to register with the Board.

Release of employed apprentices to attend technical training classes would be compulsory, and employers failing to observe apprenticeship contracts could be penalized.

UNIFORM WAGES

Uniform wages rates proposed by the advisory board would boost apprenticeship earnings slightly in most of the trades affected.

The position of "helper" in the trades would be abolished, and only registered apprentices would have the opportunity of becoming journeymen.

Helpers would be allowed to register as apprentices and become eligible for training opportunities but would have to file their applications before Dec. 31, 1950.

League-Youth Battle Is Settled in Calder

A truce has been called in the two-week-old battle between Calder teen-agers and J. C. Beckett.

At a public meeting held Saturday, Mr. Beckett, who had resigned because of the "unreasonable attitude and attempted domination by certain members of the Young Peoples Club," was reinstated by a majority vote.

A small number of teen-agers and members of the League voted against his return to office.

Trouble began April 20, when through a misunderstanding, teen-agers were ordered from the hall by Mr. Beckett. From then on they boycotted all community activities.

In his resignation, Mr. Beckett said, "It is unreasonable to expect a president to perform his duties properly unless he has the moral support of all members." He could not, he added, tolerate such an undisciplined action as the threatened boycotting of League activities by the younger section of the community.

Charles Simmonds, president of the Federation of Community Leagues, appealed "for the good of the community."

She asked that a member of the League meet teen-agers and explain the situation.

Mr. Beckett alleged a "certain element in the Young Peoples Club is out to undermine the League."

Most important of all however, he added, was that support is given the League to pay off cost of the hall.

Four Children Among City Wreck Victims

City hospitals had one of their busiest emergency rooms for 1949 when seven weekend accidents resulted in the hospitalization of six Edmonton residents.

Three-year-old Hector Mahelard, 14415 145 street, was taken to University hospital after he was run over by a car Saturday evening at 144 street and Stony Plain road.

Driver Roy B. Hunter, 10972 128 street, said he was proceeding east on Stony Plain road when he noticed a small boy run out from behind three weed-bound cars. Though he applied the brakes, Hunter told police, he was unable to stop in time.

Plans Made

To Return 5 Eskimos North

Five Eskimos brought to Edmonton during the recent disease and starvation on Somerset Island, 409 miles inside the Arctic Circle, will be returned to their village, presumably within the next three weeks.

A sixth, 15-year-old Kayomik, who lost both feet from gangrenous infection, will be taken to Fort Churchill after doctors have fitted him with artificial legs.

Dr. Herbert Melter, superintendent at Charles Cammell Indian Hospital here, where the stricken natives have been undergoing treatment during the past four months, revealed that the Eskimos are now practically well enough to be taken back to their homes.

Dr. Melter includes two foot gangrene cases, one case of pleurisy, one of recurring pneumonia, a nasal bone fracture of the nose, and a shoulder ailment which required surgery. But gangrene cases require amputation, but only the one, Kayomik's, caused loss of feet.

Dr. Melter stated that the youngsters' case has received much attention at the hospital, where he has been recovering, until now he is nearly ready to be fitted for the new extremities.

"All the natives have been very responsive to treatment," Dr. Melter stated. "That I believe they will be glad to get back to their homes."

Kayomik will not be taken to his village in the Fort Ross area of Somerset Island, but, because of his new handicap, will be taken to a more civilized outpost, probably Fort Churchill.

NOT COMPLETE

Plans have not yet been completed for return of the small group by RCMP, but it is believed that they will be taken to Cambridge Bay from where they can trek the remaining distance to Somerset.

Wedding Bells Ring for Pretty Summer Brides

We don our gayest hats, our loveliest frocks and saashy off to flower-decked churches for a continuous stream of early summer weddings.

Every bride is a beautiful bride whether she wears a traditional gown of lustrous, gleaming satin, or a "little tailored suit." This year of 1949 is a good year for trousseaus with wonderful new fabrics and flattering fashions available after skeleton years of the war and post-war era.

Frothy marquisees, demure embroidered brigandies, queenly French lace and lovely brocades await the bride-elect's decision.

Flurry of shopping, partying, planning and dreaming must be worked into the busy bride-elect's schedule in the weeks prior to her wedding.

Late afternoon wedding is planned by Lorna Brown and fiance Bill Cowley and will take place at First Baptist Church June 1.

May 28 is the date set for a wedding of great interest in Edmonton, that of pretty Kathleen Huff and Dr. Doug Ritchie. Kay's sister, Helen, now Mrs. Robert Love is expected to cope all the way from Virginia for the wedding festivities.

Margaret Muir and Norman Bartley will pledge vows in a quiet ceremony at Wesley United Church June 6.

Other busy bride-elects, Joyce Green, Helen Turner, Lorraine Ann Tardiff, Eulene Mason, Jessica Sideroff are floating about with the list of "things to do in one hand" and a list of "things to buy" in the other.
